

China -My dream destination

---

China is where it's at.

China is the next superpower. Its economic growth over the last decade has been huge. Skyscrapers, technological breakthroughs and an ever expanding consumer base, all mixed with a peculiar brand of Twentieth Century communism and ancient Confucianism. It would be great to get over there and see what it's all about. If I could only speak the language...

I want to visit Shanghai - <http://www.travelchinaguide.com/cityguides/shanghai.htm>. It's the largest city in the world and it's a modern dream. Perhaps one day I will be able to set up shop there and earn a living atop of the Jin Mao Tower or One Lujiazui. Mind you, with more than 23 million other people, they'll be lots of competition. Let the challenge commence!