

Italy - my dream destination

For me it has to be Italy. Why? Land of romance, land of Catholicism, land of ancient leaders, land of volcanoes, land of ...great food!

Venice is a city of love - those canals with their gondoliers.

Rome not only has its own historical architecture but also is home to Vatican City, and as a Catholic this would mean a lot to me to visit there and see St Peter's Basilica.

Then there is Naples. Not only a beautiful holiday resort in its own right but the gateway to Mt Vesuvius and the ruins of Pompeii. Check this out: <http://www.epnv.it/pnv/home/index.asp>

As I understand it, we don't serve pasta in the "correct" Italian way. We smother it in sauce and have piles of it for our main meal. Not so. I would love to eat pasta made by a real Italian chef in a real Italian village.

That's my dream !
